History Department

Support Children in Africa

As part of her new role as Director of Global Studies and Subject Leader in History, Miss Nicholson and her team have carried out a review of the resources held within the History Department. As a result we were able to send over 1000 old textbooks to East Africa as part of the READ international campaign.

As part of their work READ international collect, sort and match the book content to the syllabi followed in many of the East African countries. Books from LJS were collected from the school and shipped off to their destination in December. The aim of the campaign is to have sent over 800,000 used school textbooks to secondary schools in Africa by the end of 2010. Miss Nicholson said, 'It is good to know that books that are no longer relevant to the needs of our students can be used to help to improve the schooling, aspirations and confidence of students less fortunate than our own.'
